Bride, 15, Fights to Live

This Los Angeles 15-year-old bride, Mrs. Ruby Glick, is fighting for her life after she shot herself after she had quarreled with her husband, Maurice Kirch Glick, over his taking a drink of beer. The 22-year-old husband was snapped as he kissed his bride, as she pleaded for forgiveness and insisted she wanted to get well.

Hill Bride's Dad Denies Ryan 'Drunk'

Scion of Rich N. Y. Family Elopes In 2-Day Romance

MORGANTOWN, N. C., Nov. 10 (INS)—Basil A. "Pat" Ryan of the wealthy New York Ryan family was not drunk, definitely "sober," when he married Martha Barkley, Carolina mountain lass and mother of a two-month-old son, the bride's father asserted today. From Ryan's attorney came an explanation that 28-year-old Pat finds himself in his present predicament because he was under the influence of liquor when he wed the girl he had known only two days. But W. H. Barkley, her father, said Ryan's father, sternly refused. "These charges can be refuted. We have definite proof Mr. Ryan was not drunk at the time."

NOT CHILD'S FATHER

But Ryan is not the father of the baby now born to 21-year-old Martha. Barkley hesitated before he answered that question when it was put to him but his answer, when it came, was "no." Then he told more of that phase of the case.

"I prefer not to discuss the case, but I will tell you this—there is a seduction action pending against the child's father, a man in whom my daughter fondly was engaged."

No action has been filed in the superior court clerk's office of Burke County in the claimed seduction case, but members of the staff said they "understand" that certain warrants had been issued, but the proceedings had not reached them.

Mr. Nina C. Ross, county sheriff, admitted she had a warrant, but said the charge is non-support.

CANT GIVE DETAILS
Barkley was unable to give details of the romance between his daughter and the lad for whom many a shipboard society lass had set her cap. All he could say was that the couple had known each other "about four days."

Charles Bagby, counsel for Ryan, was reported by checking every circumstance of the marriage. He was reported to have visited the office of clerk and register of deeds to inquire Ryan's condition when the wedding license was issued last Thursday about 8 p. m.

Information was that the clerk said Ryan apparently had had a drink, but he would not say he was drunk.

At the hospital where Ryan is confined no information was available other than the bare cert that he had been there several days and probably will be there several more days.

Contrary to reports Ryan, his attorney said, did not "flee" from his bride. Rather he was taken to a local hospital, where he still is, when a friend found him at a hotel with the bride and her baby.

REMEMBERS NOTHING

Ryan, according to his father, did not know how they got to the hotel and remembered nothing after taking several drinks of "moon" the day before while driving home from Marion.

Ryan, grandson of the late multimillionaire, Thomas Fortune Ryan, and son of socially adept Mr. and Mrs. John Barry Ryan of New York, eloped with the girl Thursday, Friday but knew of the marriage did not become generally known until late yesterday.

Barred

Magda de Fontanges must go back to France. Her history in connection with the shooting of Count de Chambrai in France was the basis of an immigration order to bar her. You see her with the New York skyline in background on the ferry which takes her to Ellis Island. Moral turpitude was the charge.

Marriage Offer To Magda Held 'Useless'

Admitted "Felony" Bars French Girl, Says Official

NEW YORK, Nov. 10 (INS)—Mrs. Magda de Fontanges, French journalist and actress barred from this country for moral turpitude today reportedly awaited action on her appeal to the board of review at Washington.

In view of the strict rule the criminals are forbidden to enter the country, however, it was held certain that her appeal would be rejected.

The "moral turpitude" stigma was applied to the beauty because she is under a year's suspended sentence for shooting Count de Chambrai, former French ambassador to Italy, in Paris last March. She claimed the count interfered with her alleged romance with Premier Herriot, Minister of Italy.

Since de Fontanges came here to work as a showgirl in a Broadway night club, only to wind up in Ellis Island, she also questioned there today, Jack Hedges, Lock Haven, Pa. aviator, flew here to offer her marriage as a means of entering the country.

Declaring he had fallen in love with her after their meeting on the river Normandie while en route here, Hedges said he hoped that as a wife the French beauty might be able to overcome the ruling refusing her permission to remain here.

However, this gallant offer was branded as useless by Sylvester B. Hyde, assistant attorney general in charge of immigration problems. He said:

"Once she admits a felony, marriage to an American would not remove the ban."

"Other Woman,"
Says Wife

NEW YORK, Nov. 10 (AP)—After John Spay asked his wife for $100 for "the other woman," Mrs. Spay began to practice target shooting in the basement of their home. Today Spay was dead, a bullet in his back.

Sobbing, Mrs. Spay told police, "I couldn't stand it any longer." Three times she had set him up in business with money left her by a previous husband. Even when some of the money was diverted to the other woman, she accepted the situation, she said.

But when Spay asked for more funds for his sweetheart, it was too much. Yesterday Spay, a taxicab driver, was sleeping. His wife walked into the bedroom and moving about disturbed him from his sleep. He awoke with an oath.

Calmly she got down the .22 caliber rifle which had been her previous husband's, turned it toward Spay and fired. The first bullet entered a wall, so she did the second but a third imbedded itself in Spay's back. He was dead when police arrived.

She told police of the other woman, showed the book in which she noted monies given to her husband and also noted down progress of his affair with her rival.

Once she encountered the girl and told her "what she was doing to my married life." The girl said "no what."

Quest Girl Works In Big Production

Set Experience, Lunch With Stars, Evening at Troc in Perfect Day

Helen Hughes, winner of the Boston Evening American-Boston Sunday Advertiser-Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Talent Quest, continues her Hollywood diary.

By HELEN HUGHES

CHAPTER 22

Today I really worked in a picture.

What fun it was.

I reported to the studio at seven o'clock in the morning again, but this time I wasn't a bit frightened. Only excited.

The call stated that I was to report to the "Avenue Lugin Return" set, and I just couldn't wait to put all of my make-up on and get going.

They dressed me in the wardrobe, a cunning little evening gown all pink and tulle with the tiniest spangles over the underkirt that blinked through when the lights hit them.

This time I didn't have red hair, but my own, natural color set off with a single, pink camellia.

It was so nice that I was fortunate enough to work in this particular picture.

WORK ADDS CONFIDENCE.

You know, I had no idea that such a thing could possibly happen to me, but it seems that Director George Fitzmaurice thought it would give me a little self-confidence to work in a scene, even if I didn't have a great deal to do.

Anyhow, I started down toward the set, and all of myself, to be surprised at how well I had learned the lot.

Strange as it may seem, I knew exactly where Stage 21 was located, in spite of the fact that I had never been there before.

Between shots we were made up by the hairdresser and the wardrobe department and the commissary.

TUXEDOS IN MORNING.

Naturally, I was a bit overawed at everything when I walked through the stage door. But no one seemed to mind, so I just followed along where the bright lights led, and finally arrived on the scene.

There were other girls there, too, all dressed in evening gowns, and a number of men in tuxedos and in tuxedos at nine o'clock in the morning.

Anyhow, I sat over in one corner and didn't say very much, when suddenly I heard someone exclaim right behind my elbow.

I looked up and there was Virginia Bruce.

Between shots we sat together and she talked, and she talked, and she talked, and we had so much fun together.

FARTY ON SET.

Finally she ordered toast and coffee. It was a regular party.

Between shots we sat together to join us and invited us to luncheon again in his trailer.

And what a luncheon! Tamales and chili beans, and sandwiches with good hot coffee to take the chill off a real November day.

Working did me a lot of good, regardless of the fact I didn't have to say lines.

That was lucky.

CAMERA ANGLES VITAL.

I think I would have fainted, having to speak in front of all those people.

Ban Dole for R. I. 'Black Shirts'

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Nov. 10 (AP)—Because certain organizations appeared in a Columbus Day parade wearing black shirts and giving the fascist salute in the Pawtucket valley, the work relief committee of West Warwick adopted a resolution favoring dropping of relief rolls any person who demonstrated loyalty to any foreign country or political party inimical to the American constitutional system.

Judge James W. Leighton, of Fourth District Court, secretary of the relief committee, said today that the resolution did not mean that anyone was to be dropped from the relief rolls, but was a declaration of policy which would guide the committee in the future.

The language of the resolution follows:

"We favor the removal from relief rolls of all persons who knowingly participate in any demonstration of loyalty to any foreign country or political party whose policies are inimical to the principles of our constitutional system."

'Hatless Haig' Statue Unveiled

Royal Duke Dedicates 'Monstrous' Tribute

LONDON, Nov. 10 (AP)—The Duke of Gloucester today unveiled an equestrian statue of Earl Haig wearing no hat, ending an eight-year quarrel over the memorial.

Meantime ranks of the Army, Navy, Royal Air Force and air-enthusiasts heard the duke praise the late marshal, raised by his friends "the man who won the World War."

Lord Haig, the marshall's son, was present with his wife, Lady Haig, the earl's widow, who once said the statue of the horse was "monstrous" was not present.

Three models of the statue were made before the committee in charge was satisfied. Lady Haig claimed the first one "terrible. The horse in the second model was deformed by a mosquito of the eye."

On the third model, on which the statue finally was based, Lady Haig said:

"The whole style of the thing is wrong—the horse, the figure, the fact there is no hat."

Man Killed, 2nd Hurt in Skid

One man was killed and another injured today when the automobile in which they were riding skidded on ice across the Newburyport turnpike at Hunt corner, Malden, and crashed into a pole.

Joseph Sterns of Main street, Malden, driver of the car, was treated at the hospital for shock, cuts and bruises. Police lodged a driving charge against him.

"Did you see a young lady looking for a woman of my age?" The question was from Mrs. John Joyce, of Malden. She was asking Eliza Carvel Goss, of Spanish Bay, N. F. the question. That's how these two met at Myrtle docks, Charlestown, when the S. S. Newfoundland arrived today. Letter descriptions were all either had as niece and aunt sought each other.

Liner Brings Three Here For Joyful Reunions

It was reunion time today when the steamer Newfoundland, berthed at Myrtle docks, Charlestown, from Liverpool by way of St. John's, Nfld., and Halifax, N. S.

The liner brought eight passengers from Liverpool, 50 from St. John's and five from Halifax. Blonde and pretty, blonde and dark, they were all looking for home.

Eliza Carvel Goss, of Spanish Bay, Nfld., thought she was in for a pretty time of it when she failed to find her aunt, Mrs. John Joyce, of Malden, when she came to meet her.

Finally a woman approached her and said:

"Did you see a young lady looking for a woman of my age?" The question was from Mrs. Joyce and a moment later the two were embracing. Each had had a long journey.

Another Greater Boston brother, Howard Warden, of Howard street, Revere, likewise greeted a sister he had not seen for a long while—in this case 20 years. She is Mrs. Henry Twombly of Spout Cove, Nfld., and will be his guest.

Also landing were Mrs. Marion Kinnis of Alton, a settlement student, who toured 200 miles on a bicycle through England, Germany and Switzerland.

Marriner's Body Back as Killer Dies on Rope

Syrian Meets Death With a Song; Guns Salute Casket

As the 20-year-old assassin of United States Consul-General James Theodore Marriner paid for his crime on a Syrian gallows today, the flag-draped casket bearing the remains of the murdered diplomat arrived in Boston aboard the American Export liner Examination.

Marriner was slain October 12 by Maguedich Karayan, formerly of Watertown. According to reports from Beirut, Karayan died with a weird Turkish love song on his lips.

Marriner's body was removed to North Station, from where it was sent to Portland, Me., his home city. He will be buried there Friday with full military honors.

SALUTE IS FIRED

As the liner moved slowly up the harbor, an 11-gun salute was fired by soldiers at Fort Strong. Secretariat William E. Keane had command of an escort of honor, composed of 10 soldiers of the 9th Quartermasters Regiment.

Waiting at the Army Navy dock was Captain James B. Patterson, representing the First Corps Area. Others were Stanley J. Woodward, chief of the protocol division of the State Department, who was to accompany the body to Portland; Thomas F. Finnegan, deputy collector of the Port of Boston; Richard Parkhurst, secretary in the Port Authority; and fellow members of the Dartmouth College class of 1914, and Robert J. Holmes, president of the Boston branch of the Dartmouth Alumni Association.

POLICE ON HAND

Advanced that a New York undertaker had been instructed to meet the Examination and convey the sympathy of the members of the Karayan family to Marriner's relatives. Police officers and state police were present when the liner reached port.

But none of the diplomat's relatives were present and no demonstration took place.

GUARD OF HONOR

A French destroyer provided a naval guard of honor as the Examination steamed out of Beirut harbor.

The song composed by Karayan as a death song, sung him into the air today was a Turkish refrain containing the words:

"I have waited for thee, but thou hast not come."

While the song was being sung, the slayer shouted defiance at the United States government. His last words were:

"Down with Washington!" Karayan, a cultivated American citizen, fired the fatal shot at the consulate because he had not received a visa to re-enter the United States.

ADDRESS CHANGED

It was later revealed that the permit had not been delivered to him because he had changed his address.

Karayan told witnesses to the execution that he had murdered the popular 40-year-old consul general because of an "insult."

Roused from a sound sleep, he went to his death calmly, without protest.

MacDonald Mourned 'Hero'; Labor Ranks Him Traitor

Scorned Earlom, Yet Britons Divide on Appraisal of Life

LONDON, Nov. 10 (AP)—The death of James Ramsay MacDonald, the son of a poor Scottish farmer who lived to decline an earldom, divided Britain today in appraisal of his life.

Against those who lauded the three-time prime minister as savior of the nation in the dark day of 1931, there were others who regarded him as a traitor to the labor party he built.

The 71-year-old Scotsman, British first labor prime minister and first prime minister to visit the United States, died aboard a South American bound ship on a quiet day of peace and happiness he had failed to find in his unique, stormy political career.

SAILED TO SEEK REST
He had sailed last Thursday in search of what he called "the most massive of all forms of happiness—sleep."

Death apparently was due to a heart attack following a long period of poor health. His daughter Sheila, his wife, had been in the hospital for some time. The body would be taken to the United States for burial at sea.

The laborer cottage where he was born October 12, 1866, still stands in Lousmouth.

Trains came from all parties for the man who rose from that humble dwelling in No. 10 Downing street. But the tribute was for two distinct phases of his career.

Conservatives praised MacDonald's momentous action in forming a national government at the behest of King George V in the financial crisis of 1931—an action which cost him the friendship of virtually all his old Labor and Socialist League.

But his one-time co-workers who in 1931 had denounced him as a traitor of the party for deserting the cause of the unemployed, now praised him for labor before the great crisis.

TRIBUTES ARE PAID
About and almost unanimous MacDonald twice won the reputation of "the most hated man in British politics"—for his pacifist attitude during the World War and for his leaving of the labor party to form the coalition government following the financial crisis of 1931.

Only six weeks after the Scotsman who never accumulated wealth was appointed as prime minister.

After resigning as prime minister June 2, 1935, which was succeeded by Conservative Stanley Baldwin, MacDonald remained in public life until last May.

As the president of the council he shared duties in connection with the abdication of Edward VIII, and the coronation of George VI. Last May he gave up his office and was offered a peerage, but declined the honor.

Later he remarked that he hardly could expect his north country friends, who had always been known as "Mac," to call him a traitor.

The cabinet of former Home Minister John R. Clynes, who was a member of MacDonald's first government, represented pretty well the attitude of the Scotsman's former associates.

"As regards my acquaintance up to the time of his death, I have the most pleasant memories of his goodness and his kindness, but not only a great orator but a great organizer."

The liberal Manchester Guardian said editorially:

"In the latter years most of us remember him as a politician who, for reasons that were not sufficient, changed his party and in the end became the prisoner of the Tories; and from him all his early faith seemed to slip away."

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10 (INS)—Official Washington, regardless of political affiliation, today paid tribute to the late J. Ramsay MacDonald, former British prime minister.

"I have learned with deep sorrow of the death of the Rt. Hon. J. Ramsay MacDonald," Secretary of State Cordell Hull said in a statement issued here.

"His death removes from the world a great leader, a profound statesman and a loyal friend."

Senator Borah (R.) of Idaho, a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said:

"Former Premier MacDonald was a very wonderful character. If there ever was a really devoted apostle of peace, it was he. It was MacDonald I mourn his passing."

Senator Vandenberg (R.) of Michigan, also a member of the Foreign Relations Committee, said:

"Mr. MacDonald was a man of amazing intellect. Truly he was among the common people and had the trust of the most people about him. He will be mourned as a constructive statesman."

RAMSAY MACDONALD, FORMER PRIME MINISTER OF ENGLAND, DIED ON A BOAT EN ROUTE TO SOUTH AMERICA.

This historic picture was taken at the White House, when the British statesman visited this country in April, 1935. He is shown with Mrs. Roosevelt and the President in the executive mansion.

MRS. ROOSEVELT
The other evening we drifted into the New York night club that is doing the big business of the moment in that city and got to talking with the owner of the place.

One of his associates came up and handed the owner a slip of paper, which he glanced at briefly and marked with a pencil.

It was a check for $100.00. The owner checked down by counting the money and found himself out of ready cash.

He asked the night club man if he got many "bum checks," as he called them. He said the percentage of "bums" or "pays" that fine back at him from the bank was proportionately small compared to the amount of business the operation covers.

"The bad checks are not as much of a headache as the bad tabs," he said. "I mean the credit accounts run up by customers and never paid. If you get a bad check, you can cash it. If you get a bad tab, you can't."

"The latter years most of us remember him as a politician who, for reasons that were not sufficient, changed his party and in the end became the prisoner of the Tories; and from him all his early faith seemed to slip away."

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10 (INS)—Official Washington, regardless of political affiliation, today paid tribute to the late J. Ramsay MacDonald, former British prime minister.

"I have learned with deep sorrow of the death of the Rt. Hon. J. Ramsay MacDonald," Secretary of State Cordell Hull said in a statement issued here.

"His death removes from the world a great leader, a profound statesman and a loyal friend."

Senator Borah (R.) of Idaho, a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said:

"Former Premier MacDonald was a very wonderful character. If there ever was a really devoted apostle of peace, it was he. It was MacDonald I mourn his passing."

Senator Vandenberg (R.) of Michigan, also a member of the Foreign Relations Committee, said:

"Mr. MacDonald was a man of amazing intellect. Truly he was among the common people and had the trust of the most people about him. He will be mourned as a constructive statesman."

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10 (INS)—Secretary of the Navy Claude A. Brehm today announced an important reshuffle in the navy high command, including replacement of Admiral Arthur J. Hepburn, commander in chief of the United States fleet.

Admiral Hepburn will be relieved by Admiral Frank J. Fletcher, who has been in command of the Pacific fleet since 1935.

The changes will become effective next Feb. 1. The navy department explained that the reshuffle in command was of a routine nature, without special significance, and that such changes take place at annual intervals.

The navy's policy is to shift the high commanders and lower personnel frequently in order to give a rounded experience to its key officers.

Admiral Hepburn, the navy department explained, has been at sea for three and one-half years, a much greater length of time than was usual for flag officers in the United States fleet for a year and seven months.

Reverend Arthur J. Hepburn, commander in chief of the United States fleet, was relieved by Admiral Frank J. Fletcher, who has been in command of the Pacific fleet since 1935.

Plans for Mediation, Air Travel and Foreign Building Opposed

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10 (AP)—Opposition was developing today to three major portions of the maritime commission's program for restoring what it termed America's "very sick" shipping industry.

The biggest dispute may result from a recommendation that the commission be given authority to develop a "foreign building program."

The commission has been fighting against mediation of American ships abroad it believes would result in a "loss of control" over the industry.

There is opposition to the plan to allow American ships to be chartered to foreign countries for a period of 180 days.

The commission also has a plan to allow American ships to be chartered to foreign countries for a period of 180 days.

THIS IS LIFE

By Robert E. Rogers

It looks as if the New England Museum of Natural History is entering on a course of renewed and increased usefulness. For a year the building at the corner of Boylston and Berkeley streets has been closed for alterations. Now it has been reopened—and rededicated.

It is to speak—not as much as a center of scientific research as a center of public education.

There will be lectures, special exhibits on study groups. A drive for new membership is an annual feature. And according to E. S. Chapman, executive director of the museum, the new year will be a year of change and progress.

"The greatest purpose in which a museum of this kind can be devoted to education," says Chapman, "is the training of the young mind. The other functions of a natural history museum—exploration, exhibition, research and publication of results—are only secondary to what it can do in the teaching field."

Attendance Records Show U. S. Public Becoming Museum Minded

In a series of recent reports of the museum, it is shown that the attendance figures for the year 1933-1934, for instance, the visiting list jumped from two million to two and a half million, and during a quarter of the present year the numbers were more than the year before.

He might be interested, as well, in the increase in the number of people coming to the museum. In 1933-1934, for instance, the visiting list jumped from two million to two and a half million, and during a quarter of the present year the numbers were more than the year before.

Radioland Reflections

NINETEEN weeks of networking comes to an end for Walter O'Keefe, positively the best pinch-hitter the radio realm can boast, when "Town Hall Tonight" concludes (WNAC) after the 9 to 10 o'clock hour is spent.

Welcoming the personality of Allen back next week is one thing, and bidding the versatility of O'Keefe an adieu is another, to be sure, but it's been the most striking and pleasant program substitution the broadcasters have arranged since their activity began.

By N. F. T. Attempt to Jam Organization Bill Through

Preachers Preparing To Open Drive On Measure

By GEORGE ROTHWELL BROWN Special to Boston Evening American

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—"Cooked up in conference" will not be the title of a book about the four last incredible Congresses.

To an astonishing extent laws have been made by the "tribe" men, and even closed doors.

That's precisely the way things are shaping up for jamming through Mr. Roosevelt's bill for reorganizing the executive branch of the government in such a way as to put the whole work under the President's thumb.

The bill is to force the bylaws but through the Senate. A bill has been cut out of that bill which was in the original version so out of the Senate's hands.

It's done often. Once in conference between Senate and House the original bill would be restored.

Remember how the corporation surplus tax bill was jammed into law in precisely this manner? The House fixed the tax at the 42 percent level. Senate would have it at 48 percent. The House would have it at 42 percent. The Senate would have it at 48 percent. The House would have it at 42 percent. The Senate would have it at 48 percent.

When the Supreme Court bill was pending in the Senate about 1930, a group of anti-democrats were urged to throw their countervailing weight against it.

It was one of the big factors which led to the defeat of the bill. Some of the gentlemen of the club of old-fashioned conservatism.

The same organization which thus stymied the fight against the court bill is quietly at work against the preachers against the executive reorganization bill.

The compromise reached at Chicago by the Republican national committee, by which Mr. Hoover's plan for a mid-session party congress was withdrawn, came up in time to save National Chairman John Hamilton from a party caucus.

One of the senatorial big shots who was Hoover's instrument in turning Hoover down was about to launch a demand for the non-voluntary retirement of Hamilton.

Hoover's instrument in turning Hoover down was about to launch a demand for the non-voluntary retirement of Hamilton. Hoover's instrument in turning Hoover down was about to launch a demand for the non-voluntary retirement of Hamilton.

They could do it. It would be politics. But the new tax bill was framed as such by the "tribe" men.

A senator interested in the new farm surplus coupon bill met a constituent, the other, a farmer, formed him the A. A. had just sent him a check for $100.

"What did you do to get all this money?" the senator asked. "Not a thing," replied the delighted constituent. "I just dropped out of the air. You've signed nothing, never conferred on anything—haven't even been asked to."

"Who told you to do this with the money?" the senator asked. "Who told me to do this with the money?" the constituent asked. "You could probably dig around, and find out about these kind of things."

That's the way it is. The "tribe" men are at work against the preachers against the executive reorganization bill. They are at work against the preachers against the executive reorganization bill.

They are at work against the preachers against the executive reorganization bill. They are at work against the preachers against the executive reorganization bill. They are at work against the preachers against the executive reorganization bill.

They are at work against the preachers against the executive reorganization bill. They are at work against the preachers against the executive reorganization bill. They are at work against the preachers against the executive reorganization bill.

They are at work against the preachers against the executive reorganization bill. They are at work against the preachers against the executive reorganization bill. They are at work against the preachers against the executive reorganization bill.

Billy Sandow Here
Insists Marshall
For Garden Bout
Is Real Champion

By JACK CONWAY

BILLY SANDOW, who has been hurling bomb shells in wrestling since he first piloted Strangler Lewis to the world heavyweight championship, will be at the ringside tonight when Von Robert defends his title against Dazzler Clark in a finish bout at the Garden.

Sandow is manager of Everett Marshall, he insists, is the only legitimate world champion.

"I do not come to Boston in the role of manager of a challenger," Sandow declared today. "I am here as the pilot of Everett Marshall, the real champion."

"Robert has absolutely no legitimate claim to the championship. He bases his title claim on the fact he won from Dan O'Mahony in Montreal a year ago last July. How could Robert win the title from O'Mahony when the Irishman had previously been beaten by Dick Shikat?"

"Shikat became champion when he won from O'Mahony. He was later defeated by Ali Baba, who in turn lost to Marshall."

"Paul Bowser has barred Marshall from wrestling in Boston, so I have come to this city to press the cause of the champion. I do not believe Bowser should be permitted to get away with such high-handed actions."

When Bowser learned Sandow was going to be at the ringside tonight, he ordered an extra detail of police. "I don't intend to permit Sandow to interfere with my show," said Bowser. "Sandow has a reputation of causing trouble when he cannot dictate terms to wrestling promoters. I have kept him out of Boston for nine years, and do not intend to let the bars on him now."

Sandow said he would be glad to see the promoters of the fight, but he would not be in the ring. "I am not a fighter," he said. "I am a manager. I am here to see that my champion, Everett Marshall, gets his fight with Von Robert at the Garden."

There is need of a wrestling show now in Boston. There is no other show of the kind in the city. The promoters of the American Wrestling Association, the National Wrestling Alliance, and the International Wrestling Association, all have backers when they are themselves in the ring.

Because of the rivalry between wrestling promoters, it is not possible to get these various organizations to work together. Each one is trying to establish itself as the only one in the city. This is the only way to get a wrestling show in Boston.

Bowser says he is going to make the winner of tonight's bout at the Garden the champion. It is an event from an announcement that the Boston promoter intends to free the Garden tonight in an effort to force Marshall to wrestle in the Garden.

It is interesting to see what Billy Sandow will try to do at the Garden tonight in an effort to force Marshall to wrestle in the Garden.

How Malewicz Became National Figure

SANDOW WILL have to think early to get a fight with Robert. The promoter must be ready to make a fight with Robert a main event. It is a fight that will be a big draw for the Garden.

B. U. Makes Bid for National Fame In Game With Undefeated Villanova

Wildcats Arrive
For Holiday Test
At Fenway

By MURRAY KRAMER.

Villanova's untamed Wildcats dropped into town at an early hour this morning ready to violate Armistice Day principles and open grid war on Boston University tomorrow afternoon at Fenway Park.

Large tough and undefeated the Wildcats of Villanova College, Pa., have been expected to cause a howl among the Boston crowd in the game which has been scheduled for tomorrow afternoon at Fenway Park.

This year the Wildcats have featured a line attack that has baffled opponents at Villanova, Penn., and Villanova, Pa., a position which has been a factor in their winning 10 out of 11 games.

DECEPTIVE OFFENSE

The Wildcats are a deceptive unit. In the line they have a fullback who has a lot of power and a few of the own backs who are able to make a few yards in a game.

Restoration of Steel Production Confidence Needed

Noted Economist Tells Of Too Much Pump Priming

By LEWIS HANEY
(Professor of Economics, New York University)

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—It has been clear for some weeks that the business recession is headed for a time when government action will occur.

New that time is very near. The recent outflow of gold, and the weakening of government bonds are signs that the fundamental is the knowledge that unemployment, and the consequent loss of confidence in the government, is holding a series of conferences with his various advisers. We may be reasonably sure that he will do something before long.

But what? That is the big question. There is no time for just waiting a word or pulling out the strings of the promise of a "revolving credit" or of a "business balance in the budget" or of a "business pump priming."

TWO LINES OF ACTION
When we get down to reality, there are only two lines of action. One is to pump priming, the other is to pump priming.

The first line of action is to pump priming. The second line of action is to pump priming.

Australia, Argentina Wheat Surplus Given

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—The combined surplus of southern hemisphere wheat to be available for export shortly after January 1 will total nearly 20,000,000 bushels, according to the Standard Statistics Company.

The Australian wheat crop for the current season is officially estimated at 100,000,000 bushels, and the Argentine crop is estimated at 10,000,000 bushels, and a 1937-38 crop of 10,000,000 bushels, according to the Standard Statistics Company.

Not official estimates of the Argentine crop has yet been made, but trade experts are aware of 200,000,000 bushels, and if those are approximately correct, the total southern hemisphere crop would be 210,000,000 bushels, or 100,000,000 bushels more than the United States crop was in excess of the two previous years.

Despite the fact that United States wheat is selling at attractive levels, exports have been extremely small, and the improvement in the Argentine crop has been discouraged forward purchases.

There is no possibility that the United States will dispose of more than a small part of its heavy surplus abroad this season.

The combined domestic needs of Australia and Argentina are only about 10,000,000 bushels, and a surplus of close to 20,000,000 bushels is available for shipment shortly after the close of the year. As these countries have comparatively small populations, the wheat will be sold in foreign markets and exported as soon as possible after its arrival at port.

This practice usually forces world wheat prices down during the first month or so of the new year. The prospect of an ample supply of wheat is imperatively short time at lower quotations, plus the reported heavy offerings from Russia, has recently depressed the wheat market, as the outlook for heavy exports of American wheat this season is becoming more dim.

Rancher, 79, Wields Will Probe Cost Of Production In Europe

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10 (AP)—The tariff commission announced today it would hold a hearing December 14 on the differences in production costs of women's and men's garments.

The investigation was directed last session by Senators David I. Walsh and Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. of Massachusetts.

The commission said all persons interested in the investigation could attend the hearing to present evidence or facts.

Government officials indicated the hearing would get under way about the same time a delegation arrives here from Czechoslovakia to begin negotiating a reciprocal trade treaty with the new government.

During recent hearings before the committee on reciprocity in the Senate, Czechoslovak manufacturers declared that their factories were being destroyed by tariff reductions on shoes which would destroy their industry.

They requested the committee not to include shoes in the negotiations.
